ALL TAX LIEN SALES MAY BE DECLARED AS ILLEGAL

Superior Court Renders Decision, which Says Law Must be Complied With

PERSONAL PROPERTY FIRST

Property sales that have been made in this county through the county treasurer for delinquent taxes may be annulled under a recent decision of the Superior Court. This decision is causing considerable comment among the members of the Washington County bar. The court's ruling, it appears, will affect the sale of several hundred properties that have been sold by the county treasurer on tax liens.

The superior court's ruling is to the effect that to make a legal sale under this act of 1913, the law must be complied with to the letter. That is, it must be shown, before the real estate is sold, that the collector, or some one authorized to collect tax, has gone on the property and ascertained if there is any personal property from the sale of which the tax might be realized, and so ascertaining, has proceeded to collect the tax due by sale of this personal property.

It makes no difference who the owner of the personal property may be provided it is found on the property. The personal property of the tenant on the property may be sold and seized for this delinquent tax. This would no doubt result in the tenant paying the tax and holding the amount paid out of the rent, or when he realized his personal property was in danger, to notify the owner in that way would be notified there was a claim against him for taxes.

The superior court also holds that the law must be complied with to the effect that the collector must personally make demand on the owner of the property for the tax, before the collector can make a return of it as a lien.

The case decided by the superior court did not come from this county, but it brought the question squarely up to the court as to the validity of such sales, and the decision is plain. There has been much criticism in this county over the sales already made, it being asserted many persons whose properties were sold two years ago without their knowledge, were only informed of the fact lately that some one else was the owner.

The decision will likely change the condition of affairs in the county by which so many properties were jeopardized by these sales on tax liens, and the owners made safe in the possession of their homes.

TO APPEAL FROM STREAM POLLUTION ACQUITTALS

The Department of Fisheries of Pennsylvania has asked the Attorney General to take steps for an appeal of cases where the department has failed to convict manufacturers and others of charges of pollution of streams because of pleas that all reasonable means were being used. Many appeals will be taken in eastern counties. Department officials will ask that the act be tested.

NEW SWINDLE IS BEING WORKED

A new and unique swindle was worked on two Italian merchants in Greensburg two weeks ago, which is giving the State Police and the Pinkerton and banking detective forces difficulty in fathoming.

A smooth looking American selling cigarettes sold Mike Cuneo 1,000 cigarettes for which he paid cash. The stranger asked for a check but the merchant refused this.

The stranger then went to the store of Jimmie Rubino, where he sold 500 cigarettes, requesting a check to show his house who purchased them. Mr. Rubino wrote a check for $4.03. From there the agent went to the store of Joe Rubino and sold 450 cigarettes, requesting a check so they proprietor wrote a check for $3.88. The banks in Greensburg carrying the accounts of the merchants notified them a few days later that a check for $403, bearing the signature of James Rubino had passed through a Pittsburgh bank and that one for $388 had passed through the same bank for one Joe Rubino. Both merchants protested that they had only given the agent small checks.

From present indications, the coal day to day, but while big record shipments from the upper and the lower Fourth pools of the Monongahela river will exceed those of May and June. Those connected with river interests have been close observers of the increasing figures from month to month, and from the favorable start made in July up to the present time have felt encouraged that this month promises to be a high spot.

When it comes to tonnage. At the very beginning of the month a record tonnage of 2,554,600 bushels was shipped in one day gave indications of what was to come, and this record has been kept up continually, seldom less than 2,000,000 bushels being recorded almost every day. For the first twenty-five days of the month a grand total is shown of 32,185,000 bushels, and with the remaining six days veterans are watching the climbing figures, which they believe will top all records.

The boys down at Lock 4 are following the record with as much interest as a base ball "fan" would watch a game or as yachtsmen have looked over the races between the Resolute and Shamrock. It is hard for some of the old-timers to even conceive what the coal trade is assuming from

CELEBRATE 38TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. James celebrated the thirty-eighth anniversary of their wedding at their home, 407 Lincoln avenue, on Tuesday, and the occasion proved to be most delightful. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Matthews and children of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roy James and family of Marion, Ind., and Dr. C. B. James of Aspinwall, were present to assist their parents in the celebration. Dr. J. D. T. James of Pittsburgh were not present, being away on their vacation at Atlantic City. In addition to these immediate members of the family, which included eight grandchildren, a number of friends and neighbors were also present, all of whom extended sincere congratulations to the bride and groom of the early eighties. Mr. and Mrs. James were also the recipients of a beautiful present from their children, as well as numerous letters and postals from friends, who extended congratulations on this very happy anniversary.

CONDITION OF MILK CANS WAS VERY BAD

The Charleroi Board of Health was in receipt of a letter on Tuesday from the Reick-McJunkin Dairy company at Jefferson, Ohio, enclosing two tags taken from milk cans which had been shipped back to the company from Charleroi. The manager of the company complained to the local board that milk cans were being sent back from here in a deplorable state, the cans in question containing garbage, rotten meat "very much alive," as the letter stated, and further saying that all milk cans should be washed before being returned to their owners.

The parties complained of were summoned before the Board last night and the letter shown to them, and the officials notified them that in the future all milk cans must be washed before leaving their places of business. The American Railway Express company was also notified by the board of health that in the future nonmilk cans were to be moved out of Charleroi unless they had been thoroughly washed.

This was the first time in the history of the board that such a complaint had been made to it, and the tip they have received will make these officials more vigilant in the future as to the condition of milk cans after the contents have been emptied. The parties who were before the board promised that in the future all cans leaving their establishments would be placed in a clean and sanitary condition before being shipped back to destination.

HARDING SENTIMENT GROWS.

Evidence is not lacking that dissatisfaction within Democratic ranks over the San Francisco platform, which manifested itself before the was dry on the original draft, is growing daily. The rank and file of Cox's own party is beginning to see how it was bunked when a beer candidate was pulled on a platform that will not hold water.

It is significant that while there is much Harding sentiment—and it is growing every day that the campaign progresses—nobody has yet discovered a vestige of "Cox sentiment" either within or without the Democratic fold. The Democratic party nominated a candidate over which the contrary refuses to endorse, and Democrats who are broad-minded enough to see beyond partisan prejudice are beginning to realize how wan is the Democratic hope of success in November.

The truth is that the people, after eight years trial of the "Democracy" have found it not as represented and demand a real representative government. This is too great a nation, too great a democracy, to submit to one man rule which is contrary to the very foundation on which our constitution is based.

It is said of Mr. Harding that he looks, thinks and acts like McKinley. That is wholly satisfactory. He is the antithesis in every respect of Woodrow Wilson. McKinley was the sublimation of homely, practical wisdom as applied to the problems of government administration, reinforced by a rock-ribbed character of perfect honor and sincerity. He believed in carrying out, not defying, the dictates of public opinion. He regarded himself ever as the servant and not the master of the people.

No candidate presenting a greater contrast to the autocrat of the White House than Harding could have been selected. That is why the country will rejoice at his election in November as it contemplates a period of peace and prosperity such as it has not known for many years.

A PACKET SERVICE

The fact that a freight embargo now exists in the Central Region of railroads, extending from Altoona on the east, to Columbus, Ohio, on the west, in which freight shipments in less than car lots are rejected, should bring to our attention with greater force than ever the utilization of our rivers as carriers of commerce. Already the Ohio river is being utilized as never before in recent years in taking care of heavy freight shipments, two lines operating out of Pittsburgh, connecting the Steel City with towns in West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky that for a number of years had been out of touch with Pennsylvania.

During the past four years attempts have been made to restore packet service on the Monongahela, but these efforts have been abortive, and the valley is wholly dependent on the railroads for freight service. If we had a packet line in operation at the present time the needs of the people would be cared for in a manner that would give satisfaction to all those concerned, giving rapid and dependable service with all points on the river, and by means of which freight shipments of greater or less extent could be cared for every day. As it is now our freight service is greatly curtailed, and must depend upon circumstances as to whether anything local can be done or not.

It is to be hoped that some reliable company will undertake the work of restoring the old-time packets to the Monongahela, for it looks as if this would be a good time to enter a line of boats for service in this valley and one which undoubtedly there is apparent need.

THE PLODDER

In those bright young days when, speaking collectively, we knew all there was worth knowing, many of us entertained the ambition to conquer the world in a brilliant manner and set the universe afire with our success. But how many of us attained that ambition?

It is the boy who was the plodder. Remember your dead. W. S. Cook and Co. Monuments with Lawrence Frye Funeral Director. 208st in the school room who is holding an executive position and now bosses some of the rest of us. He is the fellow who kept continually hammering at his lessons. He made haste slowly and remembered what he learned. It was not by a single stroke that he expected success to reward his efforts. It was inch by inch, step by step, round by round, that he expected to scale the ladder of attainment, and he has not been disappointed.

It is the plodder who is doing the big things in the world today. Let us learn from his example.

"JAKE" IS SURELY REAL STRONG STUFF

In the police court at Monessen a few days ago an interesting demonstration was made with Jamaica ginger, otherwise "Jake," which just now is having such a run with those who must have something with a "kick" in it. As is known, Jamaica ginger is labeled as containing 90 per cent alcohol. A few drops on the railing took off the varnish as clean as if it had been scraped with a knife. Another small quantity ignited with a match burned the same as kerosene, though for a longer time. A small quantity on the sides of the spittoon when abottle was emptied caused the paint to peel off at once, so that the effect upon the human stomach can be imagined. The authorities say there is no law to stop the sale of ginger by the single bottle.

PLENTY OF APPLES IS THE REPORT

In spite of considerable "drop" of apples in some of the orchard regions of the state, Pennsylvania is likely to have an excellent yield this year, according to reports coming to State Department of Agriculture. This is especially true of the South Mountain and Wyoming region, where many new trees have begun to bear. The apple reports are generally favorable. Good reports have also been received concerning the peach crop. It is regarded as improbable that the estimates on the wheat crop made by the department some time ago will diminish as a result of the harvest which is now in progress. A good oats crop is reported.

TAX COLLECTOR'S BOND IS FIXED BY COUNCIL

A called meeting of council was held at the borough building last night, at which time Fred W. Brady, tax collector, met with them. The list of exonerations for 1919 was taken up and the collector allowed all exonerations which he recommended. The bond of the collector for 1920 was fixed at $15,000, the collector to make returns weekly, or as fast as the borough may need the money. The tax duplicate for this year will amount to approximately $83,000.

Jack Johnson says he can "come back." In the ring, perhaps, but not in public estimation.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read what a Charlottesville woman says:

Mrs. J. Seddon, 732 Fallowfield Ave., says: "I think a cold that settled in my back is what caused my back ached a great deal and I felt as if I was in a little life. My all ached, too, and I was nervous. My kidneys didn't act right either and I also became dizzy at times. I purchased a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they certainly helped me. My back soon felt strong again and my kidneys were regulated. Doan's entirely cured me."

RINGGOLD REUNION AT MONONGAHELA

The annual reunion of the Ringgold Battalion, one of the famous war units enlisted in Washington county and Western Pennsylvania, will be held at Monongahela on the 17th of August. The announcement of the date is made by Capt. James E. Gibson, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements as well as for the place and date of the meeting.

With the ranks of the veterans of the Civil War rapidly diminishing Monongahela is expecting to give the noted regiment arousing welcome when the surviving members assemble there to meet the comrades with whom they served almost sixty years ago. The original Ringgold Cavalry was organized in Monongahela in 1847, and one member who joined the organization on that day, is still living in the person of Adam Wickerham of Carroll township.

FAKE PROMOTERS LEAVING THE CITY

It is said that eighteen offices have been vacated in one office building in Pittsburgh recently by stock promoters. These people have been flooding the valley of late with stock of a doubtful value, and have been "pulling s'unts" on patrons that has resulted in cleaning up a lot of money for the promoters. The Pittsburgh Department of Public Safety is attempting to clean the city of all doubtful stock sellers, and in company with business men and manufacturers is making some headway in that direction.

July Remnant Week

Every member of the family can profit and accumulate needed wearing apparel and home furnishings at prices that will probably not be repeated for years to come. Every old piece, broken line, short length goes on the counter all this week at reductions that will compel them to move. Most of the merchandise is absolutely perfect, clean and most desirable in every way. Some goods are a little mussed from being on display. The savings will be worth coming miles to share. Our lots are small but you will be sure of finding what is wanted by coming early.

High Priced Dresses

Silk Taffetas, Satins and Organdies. Women who want to buy two dresses for just about what they would expect to pay for one will have their opportunity in this remarkable dress event this week. When we tell you that fine dresses worth as high as $29.50 are offered at $12.00 we want you to come here this week prepared to find just exactly what you are promised.
